Your Life and Time Off!!

While working at home, we have had a lot of questions about absences, FMLA hours, and status of pending absences. Great news there is a tool that is available to us that we can track and see all of this information on our own. On the company home page, under about you , you select “For Me” and you will see Absence

Dashboard. In this dashboard you can see past absences and status. You will also see pending absences. It will also tell you how many hours you have worked in regards to applying for FMLA. Take some time to navigate this tool!! As always, if you have questions please reach out to a steward!!
